Greetings, Friends:

We are in a period of tremendous change. Men and women want and need more from their jobs than a paycheck, although there can be no minimizing fair wages, they want their jobs to matter.

In both of these instances, the paycheck and job satisfaction, unions make a huge difference. It is no accident that union members earn about a third more money than non-union workers. It is also no accident that an astonishing three-quarters of union workers are satisfied with the job their union does.

That's not good enough, though. Because the strength and vitality of the labor movement has always resided in its determination to better the lives of all working people. Just consider the words of the former AFL-CIO president George Meany.

"The labor movement cannot be content with defending the status quo, or reliving past glories. We must constantly look to the future, develop new leadership, adapt policies to changing conditions and new technologies, but always, with unswerving loyalty to the mission of the trade union movement as the instrument for improving and enhancing the working and living conditions of those who work for wages."

That philosophy, so eloquently articulated by the great George Meany, is the rock-solid base on which the labor movement stands. It is the reason we exist.

The millions of men and women who are part of the labor movement, and the tens of millions more who benefit from our movement's efforts, are testimony to Brother Meany's words.

We cannot afford to look back, and we can never rest on our laurels, because "past glories" do not translate into today's victories. And we can only enhance "the working and living conditions of those who work for wages" by moving aggressively forward.

And we will move forward, against all odds. We have taken on the federal courts, the giant anti-union corporations and the President of the United States. Why? Because they have opposed the best interests of our members and all workers.

For the labor movement in America and across the nation, justice is a cause worth the struggle. And we keep up our efforts.

In Solidarity,

George Carpenter
Secretary-Treasurer
Massachusetts AFL-CIO

Greetings, Brothers and Sisters:

This message is special. In fact, it is all about the word "special."

That seems to be a word that is in vogue these days. The word special. It seems, in some strange kind of way, that the labor movement in America is now under attack because it is special.

What are we? We are, that bogeyman of 1985, a special interest. Labor is an interest group, and we've never denied that fact. We in the labor movement care deeply about a number of issues—decent living standards, housing, education, hunger, and yes, the desire to see that hard-working men and women improve themselves and their families—the Massachusetts AFL-CIO cares deeply about these issues.

For some reason, though, in the realm of politics, being identified as special interest has come to mean something unsavory, like oil companies lobbying for even bigger tax breaks, or millionaires decrying that there just aren't enough tax shelters.

Those are narrow, specific, self-serving interests, but they aren't special. For the word special implies that there is something beyond selfishness.

It is almost beyond belief how anyone can lump the American labor movement into the same category as those so-called special interests. Organized workers and their unions have been in the forefront of the struggle for justice and equality.

There is a system of free public education in this country today due to the efforts of labor. There are safety standards, health regulations, a minimum wage law, anti-discrimination statutes and scores of other protections and advances for not only union members but for all of society because of the efforts of labor.

Labor isn't about to shed the notion that it is something special. We in the labor movement believe that what we are working and fighting for is special, not narrow and parochial and selfish.

To win economic and social justice for working men and women is a very, very special mission, and we have a very special interest in achieving those goals.

The American labor movement is special, and damn proud of it.

IT SEEKS THE HARDER WE WORK, THE MORE WORK THERE IS.

At the Massachusetts Convention Center Authority, we are working hard to bring more convention and meeting business to Massachusetts. And more conventions for Massachusetts mean more jobs for Massachusetts. More jobs for electricians, carpenters, projector operators, maids, construction workers, and others. Because each convention that we bring in requires union people to set up, service, run, and to take down. This spring, thousands of new jobs will be realized when work begins on the 142 million dollar renovation of the Hynes Convention Center. And when the new Hynes Convention Center opens in 1988, the future will be even brighter. We will continue to work hard because "Meet Me In Massachusetts" means jobs for Massachusetts.

WE'VE NEVER SOLD A LOSING TICKET.

It's a fact. Not one single losing ticket.

Since beginning in 1972, the Lottery has returned over $929,730,000 to the treasuries of the cities and towns of Massachusetts. And that money has done a lot of good for everyone. It's kept our highways well-lighted, developed social programs for the aged, even kept our parks and playgrounds clean.

So even if you don't play the Lottery, you're still way ahead. And if you do enjoy the Games, well, think of it this way. You know all those tickets that didn't match anything but the color of your socks? They're also winners. Everyone is a winner in the Lottery.
